Recently, my crew members and I, have visited Aalborg a couple of times to paint. The scene is small, but a few people (AIR FDB FPS) manage to keep it alive with fresh burners, both legal and illegal and with nice color panels. Its possible to paint a lot of different stuff, especially if you like freights! GO there, you wont be disapointed. -Blend

About Crima:

He's in his early thirties and he started writing graffiti in '86. Troughout the years he had had several breaks lasting up to half a year and a year at the time. He was about 18 - 22 at that time.
The partying was probably more interresting to him than painting graffiti.

Then he met Bates and they made a crew together with Faze and Ramek and called it WR2 (writers revenge 2) then his interest in graffiti grew again.
Since then he has tried to paint a lot more, but again there has been periods where he hasn't been that active.
As he says him self, he is not getting any younger, so therefore he tries to keep doing as much as possible.

Who inspires you ?

I don't know if anyone inspires me, but I love to see graffiti from Barcelona and Spain espacially Morse and Mast.
People like Swet, Bed, Dare and Totem are nice to.

How and why did you start writing graffiti ?

I started breakdancing in '85 when the hiphop culture came to Denmark.
Everytime there were something about hiphop in the media they showed graffiti, so I got more and more interested in it. Most of the people who painted back then, got their inspiration from the movies Stylewars and Subwayart, but I didn't see them until several years after I started. The first piece I did was in '86, it was totally bitten from the book "Danish wildstyle graffiti" - sorry Whap Gang (Danish crew). I didn't know much about graffiti, so I used a pencil to sketch up the piece on the wall, I wish I had a picture of it, but I didn't think of that back then.

How did you think of your name ?

I thought of the name Crima one late night in '87 when I was going to paint a crimespot.
I used to write Rase, but there was another guy who wrote that from Crazy Gang, so I looked for another name.
I came up with Crima as a temporary name, until I found a better one, that's about 17 years ago.

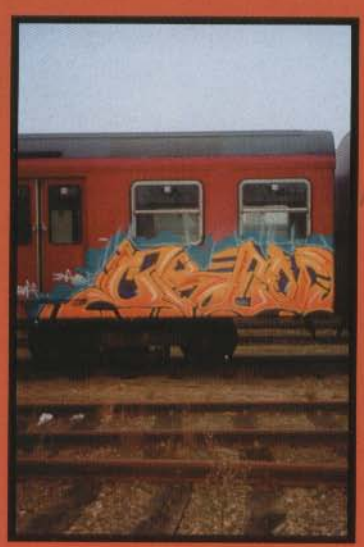
What's your opinion on legal and illegal graffiti ?

I think it´s OK that some people only do legal graffiti. I mostly paint legal walls due to personal reasons, however I do miss doing some more spots along the line.
The reason I paint illegal is not because I want to get a kick or a rush out of it, I do it because of the spot. I actually think seeing the result the next day is more exciting than doing the piece itself.

Who do you mostly team up with ?

At the moment it´s Dnye... But I try to paint with as many different people as possible.



How would you describe your style ?

A classic wildstyle in progress (it will improve)

Whats your opinion about biting ?

It doesn´t matter to me, as long as they don't claim they invented it. Several times I experienced that people bite me, but i´ll take that as a compliment.

What kept you going all these years?

I actually don´t know, a lot of reasons. One of them is probably that I like to see how i´m developing and how the graffiti scene is at the moment, not only in Denmark but in the whole world as well.
I just can´t stop painting, I´ve tried taking breaks, but it keeps on itching in my fingers.

BASEL

Dream /Toast / Dare / Irie

When I first came to Basel I had high expectations about the scene. As you probably all know they are great at making pieces along the line, so I couldn't wait to see it. I humped on my sprained ankle along the tracks a couple of hours by myself. I think that was the greatest experience I have ever had in my time as a writer. -Ridge
